

HireLAX at LAWA's Skyview Project

HireLAX's Cohort 24 is winding down, but our students are just getting started. Graduation is just around the corner. They'll be putting instruction, safety training, physical fitness and conditioning to work when they share why they're ready for a construction career with LAWA contractors at the June 6th Open House.

Part of their training includes visiting local union apprenticeship facilities, but last week, they were fortunate to see local trade members in full swing, at LAWA's Skyview Project. Swinerton Builders provided a tour for our students, sharing the interior renovations taking place on 11 floors of the Skyview building. From demo to finish trades, students were able to ask questions of foreman (Sheet Metal, Pipefitters, Ironworkers, Electricians), made available by Swinerton . . . their career trade choices are hot on their minds right now. Thanks again to Swinerton and their team for the informative presentation that included lunch and swag tote bags.

If you want to get involved or attend next month's Contractor Open House, please reach out to Christina at CWatkins@lawa.org.
